

(Have another teacher come up to the front.)

Teacher 1: Hi! I heard you need some snacks for club so I'm going to go to the store now.

Teacher 2: Have fun!

Teacher 1: Okay, bye! (Teacher 1 proceeds to wander aimlessly around the classroom, even wandering among the children.)

Teacher 2: (After a few seconds.) Uh, (teacher's name)? I thought you said you were going to the store?

Teacher 1: Sure, but isn't this the fastest way?

Teacher 2: No, you're just wandering around—you're not even going in the right direction of the store!

Teacher 1: Oh. Well, can you point me in the right direction?

Teacher 2: The store is that way (point). But since we're right in the middle of club why don't you just sit and listen? Today's verse actually has to do with something you were just doing!

Teacher 1: Good idea. I'll wait. But what was I just doing?

Teacher 2: You were wandering—our verse today tells us how to keep from wandering!

(Teachers exit.)
